I hope to see your RPG next time! Character Creator Website: See you! About Yamada-kun & The Seven WitchesSkepchick What is Yamada-kun & The Seven Witches? Seven Witch creator Yamada Kinkyu, was inspired by a game called Atelier Escha & Logy for the Playstation, which also inspired a manga of the same name. Inspired by Manga and Western Games, Kinkyu began to make his own game in 2008, that includes many different elements and characters, based on his favorite things. Yamada Kinkyu does not just want to develop games, he wants to promote more women and female characters in games, something that many games today lack. He wants to make a place where girls can be shown as more than just pretty faces and cool magic, and he also wants to promote a better image for his home country of Japan, which he feels is tarnished because of the stereotypes and misconceptions. Kinkyu chose to start with creating his own game, "the" game, a game that's just for him and only him. He saw it as an opportunity to do what no other developer is doing, to make a story, and to make a game that would promote what he loves, girls, light-heartedness, and magic. The game is done and it's called Yamada-kun and the Seven Witches. There are currently three chapters of the game. The System Requirements for this game were very tight at the beginning. But we did it! We had to use more RAM, hard drive space, and processor power than we thought we could achieve. Although we were able to do it, Yamada-kun and the Seven Witches will never be as fast or smooth as other and Administration Contact If you have a question, please consult with the various practising solicitors to request a referral and find the answer to your query. If you have a question about the requirements to qualify for registration under the Solicitors Act 1989 you may contact Mary Cartledge, the Registrar General for Scotland, who provides the following useful information for prospective students: For appointments to postgraduate courses in the University of Glasgow, contact the Postgraduate Registrar at the University of Glasgow, Southside, Glasgow G12 8QQ. Appointments made by the University can only be made in circumstances where an individual is not yet, or is no longer, enrolled in an approved degree programme/course and/or is not recognised as a student. At present, all appointments are made by the University Registrar, after consultation with the Postgraduate Director. Enrolments are open to 6 years of postgraduate experience, with individuals who already hold a professional or formal postgraduate qualification, who have been permitted exemptions, or who have a degree (undergraduate or post-graduate) would not normally be eligible. If you have a record of such an enrolment or exemption, please contact your Researcher, Postgraduate Research Assistant, to discuss this. Students from countries which do not have a reciprocal agreement with the UK (e.g. Australia, Canada, New Zealand, the United States) are allowed an exemption upon making proper application for registration. In general for Postgraduate registration all posts in approved degree programmes that are open to students must be awarded by way of an appropriate degree/marking. Students within this category of exemption are treated only as D.Litt. candidates and are expected to have their degree marked at the usual degree marking levels (up to and including 5*). In many parts of Scotland, a degree must be awarded with at least a 1st and 2:1. All candidates must hold an acceptable level of competency in English, or be exempt from English Language requirements, to be eligible to sit the Scottish Higher. Advancement of study and accreditation All postgraduate courses are annually accredited by the PRIO (Professional and Research Institute of Orthodontics) to the PRIO Clinical Excellence Awards (PCEA). Further, the Committee of Assessor Trustees of each course provides appraisals for the short list of individual candidates. These appraisals are made in principle (normally) following Gunnhildr is an ex-ascensionist, ex-affinity of fortune and ex-princess trying to escape the Primes. She was once favored by the Gods, the Primes, and the ashlar, but after a long night of betrayal, she fell to Valka and was sentenced to an eternity in Niflhel. The time has come to take back what is rightfully hers. Niflheim, the infamous land of the Primes, and its only inhabitant, the ex-ascensionist Gunnhildr, are now being hunted down by the Primes who are searching for the Halite crystal at its heart. Earth is on the verge of becoming an uninhabitable wasteland, and Gunnhildr is its only hope. If she can escape Niflhel and retrieve the Halite crystal, she will restore the Nine Worlds to their rightful place on the planet, and she will face her old friends again. But as Niflheim takes her to its heart, the last bastion of the Ancients, she's going to need your help to succeed.
