Highlight your favorite browser to get the essential Browser plugins from the Web. The extensions let you add free features to your browser, such as protecting your data, speed up browsing, and prevent online fraud. The best browser add-ons for Windows The Web has become the natural method of communication for the human kind. We chat online, do business and research, discover new things, and much more. With the Internet all over the world, we get to connect with everyone around us. But as we make more connections, we can see more data being transmitted online. More information means more data that hackers can retrieve. And if they can retrieve your data, they can steal your identity. That is why it's so important to protect yourself online. We spend so much time in front of the computer and we keep a watchful eye on our Gmail, Facebook, and other social media sites. By now, we know that most of our personal data is stored online. It's really safe to say that the Internet is the safest place for our information. But there is a chance that you can be tracked by your online habits. Add-ons for your browser can help you regain privacy and protect your information online. If your time is spent exclusively in front of your Windows PC, but you also want to use other browsers for things like checking your bank account or researching online. You need browser add-ons that are compatible with other browsers too. These are known as Browser plugins and they let you add free features to your browser. These extensions can do so much. In Chrome, you can protect your data from hackers and viruses by customizing the browser settings. You can also stop the browser from being a window for advertisements. Firefox is the other browser that is used more often than the Google Chrome. With a preloaded extension, your browsing can be faster. You can stop the browser from auto-refreshing every so often. This will slow your system down a little. Firefox users will also be happy to know that there is a backup and restore feature in the browser that can protect your data when you navigate away from a page. In Internet Explorer, there is not an add-on. But you can download the Flash Player in its Extension Store. If you really want to install Flash on other browsers, go ahead. Ad block is also a convenient plugin for Firefox. You can block ads for popular websites like Youtube. It's good to take care of your data online, because the Web is a very
