mail, in the post office or with traders - Ride a fast steamboat to your goal to avoid a long journey or see the world from the sky - The game takes place in 2020 - A sandbox game - No factories or factories without factories - No need to worry about resource stocks - All products are shown on the map - Different countries with different standards of living - Different weather conditions - Customizable cities, industries and countries - Completely new gameplay and strategy elements - Different profiles for the employees, factories, technology level, products and so on - Several hours of gameplay per profile - Exclusive for the PC - Always in-game technical updates - Open-Sourced source code

What's new in One Last Chance:

." Carla stuck a gloved finger into the hole, then leaned over to look into Patrice du Gua's window. "No one at the desk." Richie dipped the rag in the murky water, then, craning his neck to get a better look, dropped the rag into the hollow. Carla waited a moment, then pulled her finger out, licking the tip and holding it over the wastebasket. Richie watched her open and close her fist to keep the finger cool. "So what's the plan?" "We'll just have to wait for her to get up and walk out. Here's the thing, Patrice comes in at eight. She sits and eats and walks out at a little after nine. That's her routine. When she leaves the ladies' room she keeps walking towards the left wing until she reaches the car park. Where she usually does her shopping. She parks in space number 11, the first double stall on the left side as you leave the restaurant. You can usually tell which car she drives because even when she leaves for the day her car lights are still on. You can see the fog lights from the front of the restaurant. I had it down during the day." "So while she's shopping you shadow her car and wait by the front door." "No, that's my problem. I can't ride a camel up in the belly of a truck, now, can I? I can't just sit there and wait. Oh, sure, she'll come a little after nine, she's usually on her way home by then. I'll wait by the door with my suitcase until she goes into the restaurant, then I'll slip in as a regular leaving with her. Yeah." "Then what?" "How do I know? Why don't you just tell me what you want to do? Seems to me that's what we're here for, doesn't it?" He waited a moment before he continued. "With your fingers in the hole, wasn't it about a five twenty foot drop to that trash can?" Carla nodded. "Five feet on the way down, four and a half feet when I hit the rim of the can." He opened his arms wide, pushing the edges of his jacket loose. Carla took a step back. "Yeah, I figure you could do it in one or two tries. Just one, about eight foot six

The game was created in 8 days, by a team of 3 people - by shooting out lines of action, and by using the future logic to hide the puzzles. The game started as a request for the crowdfunding in August 2016. It was on several top games lists, but it never launched on Steam. The team decided to get rid of all our resources to make it better. We made the game in roughly 6 months, and pushed it to PSN and Nintendo Switch. There are several scenarios that are connected through the ropes. There is no right answer - just discover where the 7th rope will take you and get a key to the next level. The goal of the 6th level is to escape this prison through the pits.

Then the goal of the 5th level is to escape the spaceship and escape into space. From the start of the game, one can change his or her destiny. Also, the story changes. In some scenarios you can interact with the scene and your past self. All endings are possible, depending on your choices. The game was created by "The Tale of six" team, but is not a part of it. Key Features: - Story-based adventures in space. - Puzzles with a hidden logic. - Scenarios with different endings. - Different difficulties and game speed. - Several types of weapons. - Collectible items and costumes. - 3D character model animations for all characters. - Graphics with advanced lighting technique. - Several environmental objects. - Environments that change during a game. - Minigames. - Saves. - Steam achievements. - Xbox achievements. - Playstation achievements. - Nintendo achievements. - Controller support. - Simple and intuitive controls for everyone. - CG animations. - The game has unique 3D Space galaxies that were made by a designer. Who will win? Is it up to you or the world itself? Beside us, there are no people in this world. Only a sentient lifeform that cannot be seen exists. May it be the world itself or people. If there are only people, then what it it. If you can't see the person but you can hear him, how can you live like that? Maybe it's good for the universe or maybe not. We don't really know. But we can't not know that the person who we talk to has a mind. That he feels and has thoughts. The person who
